

Title of the Proposal/Item for Discussion

UCL Engineering Careers Team Oil Company deal

To be considered at

Education Zone

Outline your idea for discussion

Ban all oils company from being presented in careers talk at UCL to engineering students at least before they are taught about the ethics of being an engineer. UCL Careers admitted to being financed in majority by oil companies for them to do their greenwashing and ecover. If UCL accepts this, it is like accepting money from criminals for them to promote their crimes. Would UCL accept the same money if the oil companies had an Child labour/Human rights abuse history? Concretely, by making a policy to ban deals between UCL Careers and Fossil Fuel Companies, UCL will not have anymore incentives to host career talks for them. As of this week, UCL Eng Careers have said to be in a "neutral stance" TOWARDS CLIMATE CHANGE (!!!!!?????), oil companies and their career talks. This is an extremely cowardly, self-centered, interest driven, irresponsible, wrong-generation act. If you want proof of how absurd this is, go take a look at the new modern beautiful office of UCL Careers where in front of every door, there are 3 boxes of IMac (£1.2k/unit).

Do you think this is what UCL should be, do you want to settle for this?